

Christmas Transition--Classroom To Kitchen

The teachers and staff of F. G. Miller High School forsook their books and classrooms on Friday, December 20 to slave over the hot kitchen stoves to create a bounteous brunch banquet for all the students and invited guests. Serving spoons at the ready, they were well prepared to fill up plates for the long lineup with everything from scalloped potatoes to lasagna to salad, as the school prepared for their 16 day break from classes.

Skidoo regulations outlined

An RCMP crackdown on snowmobilers operating in Elk Point was brought to the attention of Elk Point Town Council at their December 23 meeting, and resulted in a meeting between Town Administrator Ken Kendall and members of the local Detachment to clarify the matter.

The Town had previously published a portion of Bylaw 476 / 87, as it pertains to snowmobiles, stating "No person shall drive, operate, tow, or otherwise allow to be moved upon a street or highway any vehicle having any kind of cleat, track or other device attached to wheels, or in place of wheels, which may cause damage to street surface." Council had, at their December 9 meeting, suggested that snowmobile operators be asked to use restraint and common sense, and to take the shortest route out of town. "There hasn't been a Town Council yet who wanted to prohibit snowmobiling totally," Mayor Kleeburger said, adding that the RCMP "can't be faulted" for doing their job and enforcing the bylaw.

Following the meeting with RCMP on Christmas Eve, Kendall told the Review that snowmobiles will be allowed to enter and exit Elk Point using the shortest route, via back alleys only, with a speed limit of 5 miles per hour. No snowmobiles may be operated after 11:00 p.m. These regulations will be enforced by the RCMP.

A similar regulation governs the use of snowmobiles in St. Paul.

Wherever you snowmobile, please do so safely.

Municipal budget 'down to the bone'

Elk Point Town Council spent their final meeting of 1991 paring the 1992 Municipal Operating Budget "right down to the bone." With all unnecessary expenses trimmed, the figures still indicate the need for a one mill increase, which Administrator Ken Kendall says will add about 3.8 per cent to the bottom line of last year's tax notices.

Although the operating budget has now been passed, 1992 tax notices are not likely to be in the mail until late May or early June, as these must wait until the requisitions for school taxes are received.

Part of the increase comes from the $13,000 the Town must pay toward a general reassessment during the new year. Decreased income from interest, and the GST the Town must pay, account for most of the rest.

Staff salaries are being held to a cost-of-living increase in the 4 per cent range. Grants to the Chamber and Agricultural Society are being kept at last year's level, while interior painting at the Library was crossed off the list.

Revenues from water and sewer will be recalculated on a 75 - 25 split, rather than the present 70 - 30 split, to more closely reflect actual cost ratios between the utilities. It was noted that water in Elk Point is still being subsidized by approximately 10 per cent of the actual cost, from tax dollars, but this figure is much lower than other towns. Municipal Affairs would like to see all towns operate their utilities on a user-pay basis.

The budget includes wages for an operator to man the sanitary landfill site jointly operated by the Town and County, for one 10 hour day per week. A $1 per month increase will be added to each ratepayer's garbage bill to help defray this cost, which is made necessary by stringent rules regarding waste disposal.

Purchase of a one ton truck has been included in the budget, to be paid for from Ample Grant funding, and tender proposals are being sent to dealers in the surrounding area and in Edmonton, with January 27, 1992 as the closing date for tenders.

Another item which has been given the go ahead is upgrading of the sewage lift station, and a consultant has been chosen for this project, which will be undertaken in 1992.

Some increase in income for building permits is expected in 1992, following the passage of Bylaw 522 / 91, amending the 1984 building permit bylaw by increasing the fees for commercial, industrial and institutional projects to figures more in line with other communities of similar size. No changes were made in fees for residential construction or renovations.

A small surplus in the Community Services budget for 1991 was utilized to purchase speakers for the new Seniors Recreation Centre, and for donations to the Library and to the Crisis Centre.

The Community Services Board has tentatively chosen a name for the Elk Point Rec Land, and will announce the name after input has been received from direct users of the park, such as the Golf Club and Lions Club.

Deputy Mayor Louis Verhagen will represent Council at the North East Alberta Winter Games in February.

Elk Point lights up for Christmas

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce continued their long standing tradition of holding a Christmas Lighting and Decorating Contest again this year, with a large number of well decorated residences and businesses giving the judges a challenging task to determine the winners.

Many paned windows, their frosted corners allowing a tantalizing peek at tinsel and lights within, brought first prize to Single Styles Creative Hair Care, in the Commercial division. Second prize went to Dave's Pizza, whose premises was well decked with multicolored lights and tinsel, and third prize just down the block to Millie's Flowers, with an eye-catching window display of woodland creatures skiing and tobogganing down a snowy hill.

Perennial winner Pauline Pankiw once again topped the Residential division. This year, her color scheme is green and white, with an old fashioned street light shining on a group of carollers, and Santa and his team ready to leave with the loaded sleigh from the side yard. Second prize in Residential goes to Bill Jennissen, whose home proclaims "Merry Christmas" from its rooftop, with multicolored lights ringing roof and windows. Rick Patroch's attractive lighting scheme placed third.

A newcomer to Elk Point, John Jubinville, won the Apartments category, with "Noel" spelled out in blue lights on his balcony. Anne Stanley, with matching indoor and outdoor trees, placed second, while Karen Boras was third.

A special honorable mention goes to Heritage Lodge, whose rooftop ringed with multicolored lights was complimented by a series of trees, each covered with lights in a single color.

Congratulations to all the winners, and thanks to each and every business and household who brightened Elk Point's Christmas season with their colorful seasonal decor this year.

Provincial Flags Presented

MLA John Drobot presented a unique Christmas gift to the students of F. G. Miller High School, in the form of a set of miniature flags of each province and territory in Canada. Principal Jim Hawkins accepted the gift on behalf of the school.

F. G. Miller High School continued a longstanding tradition on December 20, when they held their 14th annual Christmas Brunch, with teachers and school staff playing host to the students and a number of special guests.

Included in this year's guest list were two former teachers, Sid Holthe and Lawrence Modin, their wives, MLA John Drobot, Mayor Bruce Kleeberger, County Councillor John Zenko, School Board trustee Ed Buck, County Schools representative Carmen Brodziak, sports coaches Jim Tilton and Ray Danyluk, and a number of school bus drivers.

Mayor Kleeberger brought greetings from the Town, and noted that the brunch has become "an important tradition in our community, lasting through four school administrations and three school superintendents."

MLA John Drobot presented the school with a set of miniature provincial flags, and offered seasonal wishes from the Province of Alberta.

Senior High Students' Union President Denis Jasinsky led a round of applause for the teachers and staff whose time and money went to carry on the tradition. Councillor Zenko echoed his sentiments and commended the cooks on a fine meal.

Royal Canadian Legion Branch President Helen Moneta was on hand to present Remembrance

Day Poppy Contest awards to two FGM students, Dean Kozicky and Rebekah Matthews.

Rev. Sam Donaldson was present to offer grace, after which long lines of guests and students converged on the groaning tables, manned by spoon-wielding teachers and school staff.

Tidbits

A smile costs nothing but gives much. It enriches those who receive, without making poorer those who give. It takes but a moment, but the memory of it sometimes lasts forever. None is so rich or mighty that he can get along without it and none is so poor that he cannot be made rich by it. A smile creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in business and is the counter-sign of friendship. It brings rest to the weary, cheer to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad and is nature's best antidote for trouble. Yet it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed, or stolen, for it is something that is of no value to anyone until it is given away. Some people are too tired to give you a smile. Give them one of yours, as none needs a smile so much as he who has no more to give.

- Maria E. Hagain

Preventative Maintenance Workshop

This workshop will provide information and rationale to participants on how important systematic care, servicing and inspection of equipment is to their facility. Simple suggestions for planning and organizing a preventative maintenance system, specific to arenas and curling rinks will be provided. The system is also easily adapted for all community halls, drop-in centres, etc.

Overall, the workshop will concentrate on the importance of keeping equipment within the facility in serviceable condition and how to detect and prevent early stages of failure.

The workshop will be held on Wednesday, January 22, 1992 from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. in the Town Office, Bruderheim. The fee is $5.35 and the registration deadline is January 15, 1992. Early registration is encouraged. Call Elk Point Community Services at 724-3800 to register or for more information.

AN ALBERTA CROWN CORPORATION

Season's Greetings

FROM ALBERTA SPECIAL WASTE MANAGEMENT CORPORATION

Amidst all the world change and upheaval, it's not surprising that some of the best news from 1991 failed to make the headlines; in particular, the good news about our environment.

While television cameras captured the high drama of Albertans fighting Kuwait's oil well fires, other Albertans were winning an equally important battle against chemical pollution.

In the past year, the per capita participation of provincial communities in household hazardous waste collection programs outranked North America's major cities - and Alberta's per capita participation was greater than California's.

Alberta businesses and associations demonstrated their commitment by sponsoring programs like Toxic Round Up Alberta, Oil Recovery Alberta and the Great Drug Round Up. And our major industries expanded their on-site waste minimization programs with the help and participation of concerned employees.

In a world of change, Albertans are changing things for the better.

To you and your family, we extend our best wishes for a Peaceful Holiday and a Prosperous New Year.

Home ice win for Elks

Dewberry Mustangs and Elk Point Elks made good use of home ice advantage this weekend, with Dewberry earning a 7-6 victory in their own arena Friday night, and the Elks coming back home to defeat Dewberry 7-5 in Sunday's contest.

An excellent crowd was on hand for the December 29 game, which saw Elk Point first to hit the scoreboard, Pat Lamoreux scoring off an assist by Corey Laboucane just over three minutes into the game. Dewberry quickly tied it up, Ed Symons assisted in the goal by Perry Symington and Bruce Goldsmith. The Elks again pulled ahead on a goal by Murray Cochrane, assisted by Jason Jenner, but their lead was short lived, the Mustangs coming back with three goals in the second half of the period, scored by Mike Wasylik, Darcy Whitlock and Perry Symington, assisted by Jerry Kjenner, Whitlock (2), Wasylik and Goldsmith.

Each team moved up by one goal in the second period, Mike Boratyniec scoring for the Elks with assists by Richard Marcoux and Shawn Mevel, and Bruce Goldsmith scoring for the Mustangs off assists by Whitlock and Bob Oneschuk.

Penalties were numerous in the first and second period, but the only major infractions of the game resulted from a scuffle behind Dewberry's net seven minutes into the third. Mustang Mike Wasylik and Elk Allan Loughran were sent to the showers after that one, while Corey Laboucane and Kent Boyd spent much of the balance of the game cooling their courage in the penalty boxes. The dustup seemed to clear the air, with only two more minor penalties recorded in the remaining 13 minutes.

The Elks appeared to find new enthusiasm after the ice was cleared of gloves and helmets, and went on a scoring rampage. Goals by Jason Jenner, Murray Cochrane and Shawn Mevel, assisted by Terry Wozniak, Kerry Loughran (2), Pat Lamoreux, Richard Marcoux and John Wozniak, brought the Elks back into the lead, with Kerry Loughran scoring an insurance goal into an empty net with 31 seconds left, after Dewberry pulled their goalie.

The Elks are off on the road this coming week, with games in Neilburg Saturday night and in Paradise Valley next Tuesday. Their next home game is scheduled for Saturday, January 11 when they take on Marwayne at 8:00 p.m.

In Our View

And goodbye to 1991!

I suspect all the newspapers and periodicals will, at this time, be doing year-end round-ups, the year-in-review articles and commentaries. Can I be different?

The ending of another year, for me, is a time of rejoicing, as is almost every morning, an acknowledgement that I am still here on earth, and conscious that I've survived another day - and another year. I'm not always sure I deserve to be; I just know I'm glad I am.

Each day brings something to be thankful for, some reason for living; each new beginning year brings something to look forward to: more blue skies, more smiling friendly faces to greet us, more sunrises and reasons to count our blessings.

I am not there at this very moment, but when the sun rises on this last dawning of the old and weary year of 1991 A.D., I hope to be sitting at my sister's breakfast table, being stuffed with her good food, and overlooking the grey waves of the Pacific Ocean (or some part of it which runs up into these Straits between Vancouver Island and the mainland of British Columbia and all around surrounds this tiny island on which my sister Virginia and her family make their home).

It will not surprise me if she is offering me apples from her own trees, or dainty crab-meat slivers, prised from the shells of crabs her Eric gathers out of the surging salty tidewater.

When full day comes, perhaps as I've been privileged to do before, I will wander in her garden, and find a rosebud to pluck; not at all a pastime we engage in, here in sunny Alberta, on the last day of any old year. So this will be a Number 1 Thankfulness to express, as I say goodbye to 1991.

I am thankful for the good health I've enjoyed; that I've been able, so far, to get up again whenever I've fallen down. I'm thankful to the County snowplow that comes and clears the heavy snow from my driveway, so I can continue contact with the rest of the world (and of course, to the driver who runs it, and does such a nice neat job, so carefully - as though he knows it gets harder for me to shovel). I hope his New Year is rewarding.

I'm thankful for the Post Office and staff, who cheerfully stuff my mailbox to overflowing with those countless flyers - then thoughtfully supply a waste bin for me to throw them into, after I've sorted out thereal mail, those bits of paper and ink that keep my family and many friends close to me, though they be even thousands of miles away; and I thank them, when they as cheerfully serve me when I ask for nine 1 cent stamps, as when I mail a parcel costing $9, or when I can't find a postal code, and one will take time to spot it for me. Happy New Year to you all. (Did you know the Post Office is a good place to receive a friendly smile, or greeting, or weather commentary - even from strangers?)

I give thanks for that little box on the wall (and by my bedside) that can magically connect me to loved ones in Montreal, or Texas, or even across the seas, to Vancouver or Heinsburg or my next-door neighbor, in a matter of seconds, carrying our thoughts, our wishes, news, concerns, joys or sorrows almost as easily as opening our mouths and speaking in the same room. What an utterly wonderful tool that is, if we but stop to think on it. And one could live without it - but a whole lot easier with it. Thanks, AGT and clones, you help a LOT.

I am especially thankful to ALL those semi-unseen persons who make my life livable; those who fill my car with gas, and my furnace to keep me warm; the workmen who keep my wires humming and mend them when they break; the stores that keep my needs on hand and supply me when I ask; the road makers, bridge makers, fence menders, thank you all. Thank you, farmers, who feed me and delight my eyes with the golden canola, the waving wheat, the huge bales dotting the fields, and who care for the cattle there, and supply the milk for my cereal. I hope your long-watched-for pie appears in the sky someday. And that you won't forget that next year will be a better year.

At this ending of a very odd year, in untold ways around our uneasy planet, I am grateful that the war we were so dreading a year ago was short-lived, that the infamous oil-well-burning was overcome so quickly, comparatively (since some predicted several years ago), but give NO thanks at all to those countries that continually beset their own citizens, turning them into refugees, and all the suffering that causes. I hope those responsible rot in Hell. And no, you are NOT a refugee when you run over the border to spend your money, while drawing your pensions and medicare from your Mother country, you are merely a slob.

Closer to home, I am continually grateful for those who are my friends, who help me in need, and cheer me when I'm low, who smile in greeting and make my days a joy. Thank you, Vicki, for making my meager talents seem important, and dignifying it as work; and Faye, for your cheerful smile and gracious help. Thank you to Violet, and Grace, Myrna, Margaret, Lois, Muriel and Sid, Annie and Irene(s), George and - ALL those who are my friends. I hope your New Year blooms like a garden for you. May you all, as I do, look forward to a really great New Year, filled to the brim with the joy of living. To all my family, far and near, God Bless and keep you in this new 1992, and in ALL the coming years.

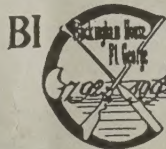

Predictions old and new

Looking back a whole year to December 31, 1990, we find that almost all our predictions for 1991 were right--all, in fact, except for the official opening of Mural Park (maybe in 1992?) and the inaugural rodeo at the Ag Society Fairgrounds, for which the RCMP Musical Ride and the building of the Show Barn more than compensated. We'd say that was pretty fair predicting, for amateurs!

We didn't predict--in fact, we would never have dreamed at that time, what a huge event the Bicentennial is shaping up to be, and that we would have already drawn a considerable lot of attention word of our upcoming celebration spreads ever wider. Nor did we predict the Pumpkin Cookbook (which affirmed Linus' belief that there IS SO a Great Pumpkin, AND more than a hundred ways to serve it), nor that Peter Fidler would once again survey the valley of the North Saskatchewan, this time larger than life and celebrated as a symbol of tolerance and understanding between cultures.

Further afield in 1991, Canada has gone to war, and come home relatively unscathed, giving rise to the greatest surge of patriotism the nation has known in close to half a century. Around the world, extraordinary changes have taken place, so fast that social studies textbooks cannot keep up, as Communism becomes obsolete, residents of the former USSR face hardships along with their newfound freedom, and Gorbachev faces unemployment. The GST has become one of those things we put up with, like seatbelts.

What will tomorrow, January 1, 1992, and the year which follows, bring us? Once again, it is hard to make predictions. On the local scene, we know it will bring the multiple celebrations of the Bicentennial, with the dogsled mail run in February, official opening of the Visitor Reception Centre at the Forts in June, the major three-day-and-still-growing event in August. We expect it to bring the official openings of Mural Park, the Seniors Recreation Centre and the whatever-they-decide-to-call-the-Rec-land park, and the inaugural rodeo at the Fair Grounds. Meetings, tournaments, bonspiels, graduations, awards days, presentations, donations, salutations and commendations are all sure to come, as is a New Year's Baby, Canada Day and Remembrance Day. With any luck at all, we'll be here to tell you all the good news about each and every one of these events... plus all the wonderful unforeseen things that will come our way as the Bicentennial year unfolds. A hearty wish for 365 days of nothing but the best to you all!

BICENTENNIAL

Billie Milholland

Between February 15, 1992 and February 21, 1992, history will be made when Richard and Diane Smith of Rocky Mountain House carry the mail by dog team along a historical dog sled route from the original Edmonton House site (near Bruderheim) to the Buckingham House site (southeast of Elk Point). Canada Post is cooperating in this historical venture by signing the Smiths on as temporary Canada Post Mail Carriers for this event, and by creating a special slogan cancellation stamp featuring the Bicentennial logo which will be used to hand cancel the stamps on the letters. The Bicentennial Project in Elk Point, in coordinating this historic event, has designed a special commemorative envelope which will be on sale to the public in the new year. These limited edition envelopes will have first call on mailbox space when Canada Post collects the letters that will travel by dog team.

In the early fur trade, dog team was the only efficient way to travel between the far flung, snowbound outposts in winter and the North Saskatchewan River route was well used for nearly one hundred years before trucks, trains and aeroplanes made the canine express obsolete. Dog sled express teams are seldom mentioned in our history books yet they provided the life line for men, messages and medicine during decades of long

Get your mail by dog sled!

Canadian winters.

Retracing historical dog sled routes is not new to the Smiths. The 1992, 5 to 10 day mail express journey will mark the fourth year of this unique effort for them. The only route longer than the Edmonton House to Buckingham House trail was the Fort Smith, NWT, to Fort Chipewyan, Alberta, route that they travelled in March 1988 with several other teams.

The preparation for the rigors of such a historical re-enactment is long and arduous. Richard Smith claims that they will be travelling at least 1,000 kilometres of preparation runs to condition themselves and their dogs and test their equipment prior to beginning the route on February 15, 1992. They don't use any of the modern high-tech winter wear which they have found to be inadequate for the degrees of cold they must endure. Cotton, wool and fur are still the most reliable fibers for them. They don't use the luxury of food and supply drop offs during their trip; they carry everything that they and their dogs will need for the whole time away, including a tent and a collapsible stove. Although their journey is far more rigorous than the usual winter outing, the Smiths and their dogs do not torture themselves. They rest after every hour of effort and they average an eight hour day of travel as opposed to the 16 hours of travel experienced in earlier times. Their dogs are fed a high energy feed mixed with warm water to suit their high energy output. The Smiths are also very careful with their own nutrition on the trip, making certain that their fat and carbohydrate intake are adequate to the weather and their exertions. When asked if they would try, during their trip, some of the new 'Cold Buster Bars' developed by an Edmonton scientist, Richard Smith said they may give them a test run.

Richard and Diane raise Siberian Huskies so it was inevitable that their interest in retracing historical dog sled routes began in the north. When Richard was stationed with the RCMP detachment in Fort Smith in 1980, he often used the couple's Siberian Huskies to perform patrols instead of the detachment's snowmobiles, and therein began their life's ambition of using their dog teams to recreate old routes and rekindle an interest in Canadian history.

Anyone is welcome to send a letter by dog sled team in February. The post office in Elk Point will collect the special letters which will then be trucked to the starting point. On your commemorative envelope or regular envelope, write your name, then 'Buckingham House, Rupert's Land, North America.' This old address will alert the postmaster to put the letter in the dog sled bag.

What's news at the library?

Fifteen children were on hand at the Elk Point Public Library for the Christmas Story Time Party on December 20, 1991. The children listened to the Christmas stories and sang Jingle Bells before the puppet show, "Max's Christmas." The Merry Elf dressed in red and white arrived and handed out treats to the children. Christmas cookies and apple juice were then enjoyed by those present. The staff would like to thank all those who helped with the program: Cheryl Dzerdz, Billie Milholland and those who brought cookies and treats.

We would again like to wish all our patrons a happy and prosperous New Year in 1992.

The Library Board and staff would like to take this opportunity to thank all our wonderful volunteers who helped us in 1991. We look forward to their continued support in 1992. Without our volunteers, we would not be able to offer the public the quality of service we do. Our volunteers are: Ila Borowski, Pearl Bepalko, Yvonne Klein, Charlene Longpre, Mary Lou McLeod, Helen Myshak, Sandy Myshak, Sherry Pelech, Nancy Sailer, Lena Step, Margaret Young, Anna May Warren, Diane Pelletier-Wygle, Gail Kozicky, Karen Norman, Myrna Golden and Gisele Fairbrother, also to the

Santa Visits The Library

Santa visited the Elk Point Library just before Christmas, but was much too busy to check out any books. The jolly old elf was surrounded by eager children for the entire time, each anxious to list their Christmas wishes. The Library's Storytime Christmas Party was once again a big success and much enjoyed by everyone.

Proposal has "Canada Clause"

Deborah Grey
M.P., Beaver River

December's business on Parliament Hill came to an early close as the House adjourned on the 12th for the upcoming Christmas season. There was, however, a flurry of activity as the Government attempted to tie-up loose ends, passing a number of Bills.

On Monday, December 9, the Government passed a technical bill, Bill C-20, "An Act to amend certain statutes to implement the budget tabled in Parliament on February 26, 1991". On principle, I voted against the Bill, as this constituted a vote of confidence in the Government. Inevitably, however, the Bill passed third reading.

Further legislation, of a complicated nature, also passed third reading in the last week of December's sitting. Bills C-4, C-19, C-28, and C-34, dealt with federal trust and loan companies, banks and banking, insurance companies, fraternal benefit societies, and cooperative credit associations. The amendments proposed in these Bills constituted some of the better decisions taken by this Government in this session. I voted for all four Bills because I believe that they will go a long way in making Canada more competitive in the global market-place.

Other important legislation included Bill C-17 which received royal assent on Thursday, December 5, 1991. This firearms control legislation is now law, and to be quite frank, comes at the expense of the overwhelming majority of the citizens, who are law-abiding gun-owners. The urgency in passing the Bill and the lack of consideration that the Senate expressed, is proof for the need of Senate reform. I believe a Triple-E Senate would have been far more sensitive to rights and needs in our Constituency than the present "Red Chamber".

On Wednesday, December 11, the Government managed to pass legislation for the privatization of Telesat Canada. This is certainly a step in the right direction. At present Telesat is running a debt of about $800 million. I hope the Government will do the logical thing and put this money towards the national debt, so as to reduce the $17,000 you, I, and every other Canadian, owes to the creditors of the Canadian Government.

Apart from the cavalcade of legislation this past month, there were a number of other important events which took place.

Prime Minister Mulroney announced that Canada has decided to recognize Ukraine as an independent state, and will soon open negotiations on establishing diplomatic relations with Ukraine. This is a monumental occasion for the constituents of Beaver River who have Ukrainian ancestry.

As usual, the "Special Joint Committee on a Renewed Canada" or the Constitutional Committee, as it is better known, is in full swing. At present, however, it is only hearing from "experts" in Ottawa, and has no plans to travel. During the Parliamentary Christmas adjournment, the Committee will continue holding its public hearings. It has a February 28th deadline for its report and recommendations on the Government's constitutional package.

As you may already know, one of the Government's proposals includes a new "Canada Clause". Undoubtedly, this will be formulated by a small group of bureaucrats in Ottawa who will adopt a politically correct definition of what Canada is all about. I will be taking a different approach. In the new year, my office will be distributing posters to all the high schools in Beaver River asking students to submit their definition of Canada. This "New Canada Contest" will include prizes for the best entries. Hopefully, using this method we can garner a real heart-felt explanation of the essence of Canada.

From January 15th through to, and inclusive of the 17th, I will be conducting a tour in Beaver River. Although there will be posters in the various towns, and ads in the appropriate papers during the first two weeks of January, 1992, I wanted to alert you regarding my tour.

This time, I will be in each of the six locations mentioned, for two hours. The first hour will be a public meeting and the second hour will be private appointments (which will be set up by phoning my Constituency Office in St. Paul, 645-5742 or 1-800-522-4125). I would, however, ask you to watch your newspapers and read the posters for the final details as to exact location and time.

Friday, January 17, 1992 2:00 to 4:00 p.m., Warspite; 7:00 to 9:00 p.m., Gibbons.

Thanks for reading my column through to the end. I feel it's important that you know what I am doing in Ottawa on an ongoing basis. Have a very happy and prosperous New Year.

Dollhouse Draw Winner

Faye Smith of the Elk Point Review has a new house to be proud of. She was the lucky winner of the carefully crafted structure, complete with furniture, created by Metro and Mary Zalaski and raffled by the Ukrainian Orthodox Parish at Slawa. Parish President Ted Yarmuch is shown making the presentation to Mrs. Smith. The Parish wishes to thank the Elk Point OORP, the Co-op, Met and Lakeland Malls for allowing them to sell tickets on their premises.

Hope for Heinsburg Eagle hoopsters

Things are looking up for the Heinsburg Eagles boys' basketball teams as they start their second year of hoops after a 20-year layoff.

This year they have basketballs.

"Last year when we started we didn't have any quality basketballs," Eagles coach Mark Taylor said. "This year we have five leather basketballs."

The school has also added new baskets at the school which are comparable to the ones' more established basketball schools have.

But getting equipment for a new program is easy, the hard part in starting a basketball team is changing the attitude at this volleyball-hungry school.

"Volleyball has been the big sport around here," Taylor said. "Basketball hasn't been addressed here for a long time."

There are some indications that things are picking up on the basketball court at Heinsburg as 12 players have tried out for the team this year as compared to nine last year.

As the Eagles prepare for the 1991-92 basketball season, they are in the midst of a winning streak, thanks to a win in the last game of the season over Saddle Lake.

The Eagles finished last year with a 1-12 record.

If the team is going to improve this year, it will have to improve its road record.

Mainly because all their games are on the road.

Because the gymnasium at Heinsburg is too small for basketball, the Eagles are forced to play all their games in the other team's barn.

"We couldn't get in a league this year because we'd have to hold home games," Taylor said. "We're not about to embark on that."

The possibility of playing home games at nearby Frog Lake School exists, but the logistics of scheduling was too much of a headache, according to Taylor.

Because the Eagles aren't in a league, they are restricted to playing exhibition games and tournaments.

Taylor admits it there will be a lot of tough sledding before Heinsburg has a basketball program to match its volleyball team.

With the only basketball experience most of his players have coming from their phys ed classes, Taylor said his teams skills are poor compared to other schools.

"But if you consider how much time they've played, their skills aren't bad."

Regardless of how they fare on the court, they'll be looking a lot sharper thanks to new uniforms.

"Last year we had 40-year-old rag-tag uniforms, this year we have decent uniforms," Taylor said.

"Things are starting to fall into place."

Win for Elks

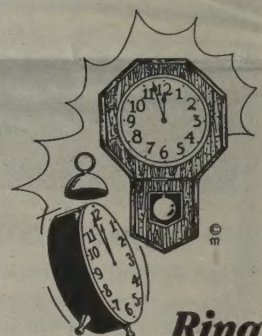

Elk Point Elks put an end to a short losing streak with a 5 - 1 win over Paradise Valley Jets on the pre-Christmas weekend, December 22. This was a return engagement with the Jets, who defeated Elk Point 7 - 6 in overtime the previous Tuesday in Paradise Valley.

Murray Cochrane scored the first Elks goal twelve and a half minutes into the game, off an assist by Greg Desaulniers, for the only scoring in the first period.

Paradise Valley's Shane Tingley tied the score on an assist by team captain Don Mayo early in the second period, with the scoreboard remaining at 1 - 1 for one second short of half a period. Greg Rheume's goal at that point, assisted by Terry Wozniak and Allan Loughran, brought the Elks ahead, with a third Elk Point goal by Kerry Lougran, assisted by Murray Cochrane and Greg Desaulniers, widening the margin four minutes later.

The Elks started off the final period with a goal by Jason Jenner after only 24 seconds of play, with assists by Shawn Mevel and Murray Cochrane. Richard Marcoux brought the score to 5 - 1 three minutes later, off an assist by Willie Lesyk, with that score holding fast through a turbulent third period which saw as many penalties as for both of the previous two.

The Elks recorded 39 shots on goal during the game, as opposed to 15 for their opponents.

With our best wishes for '92.
